

Did you Know? Dalmatians are fire dogs. But why?

More than 100 years ago, when fire engines were powered by horses, dalmatians would run alongside the fire engines to clear the path. And then the dogs — who are friendly with horses — would comfort the horses, who are often frightened of fires, while the firefighters did their work of putting out the fire. That’s great teamwork!

COLOR

CUT

FOLD

BACK

2

FRONT

1

1

2

INSIDE

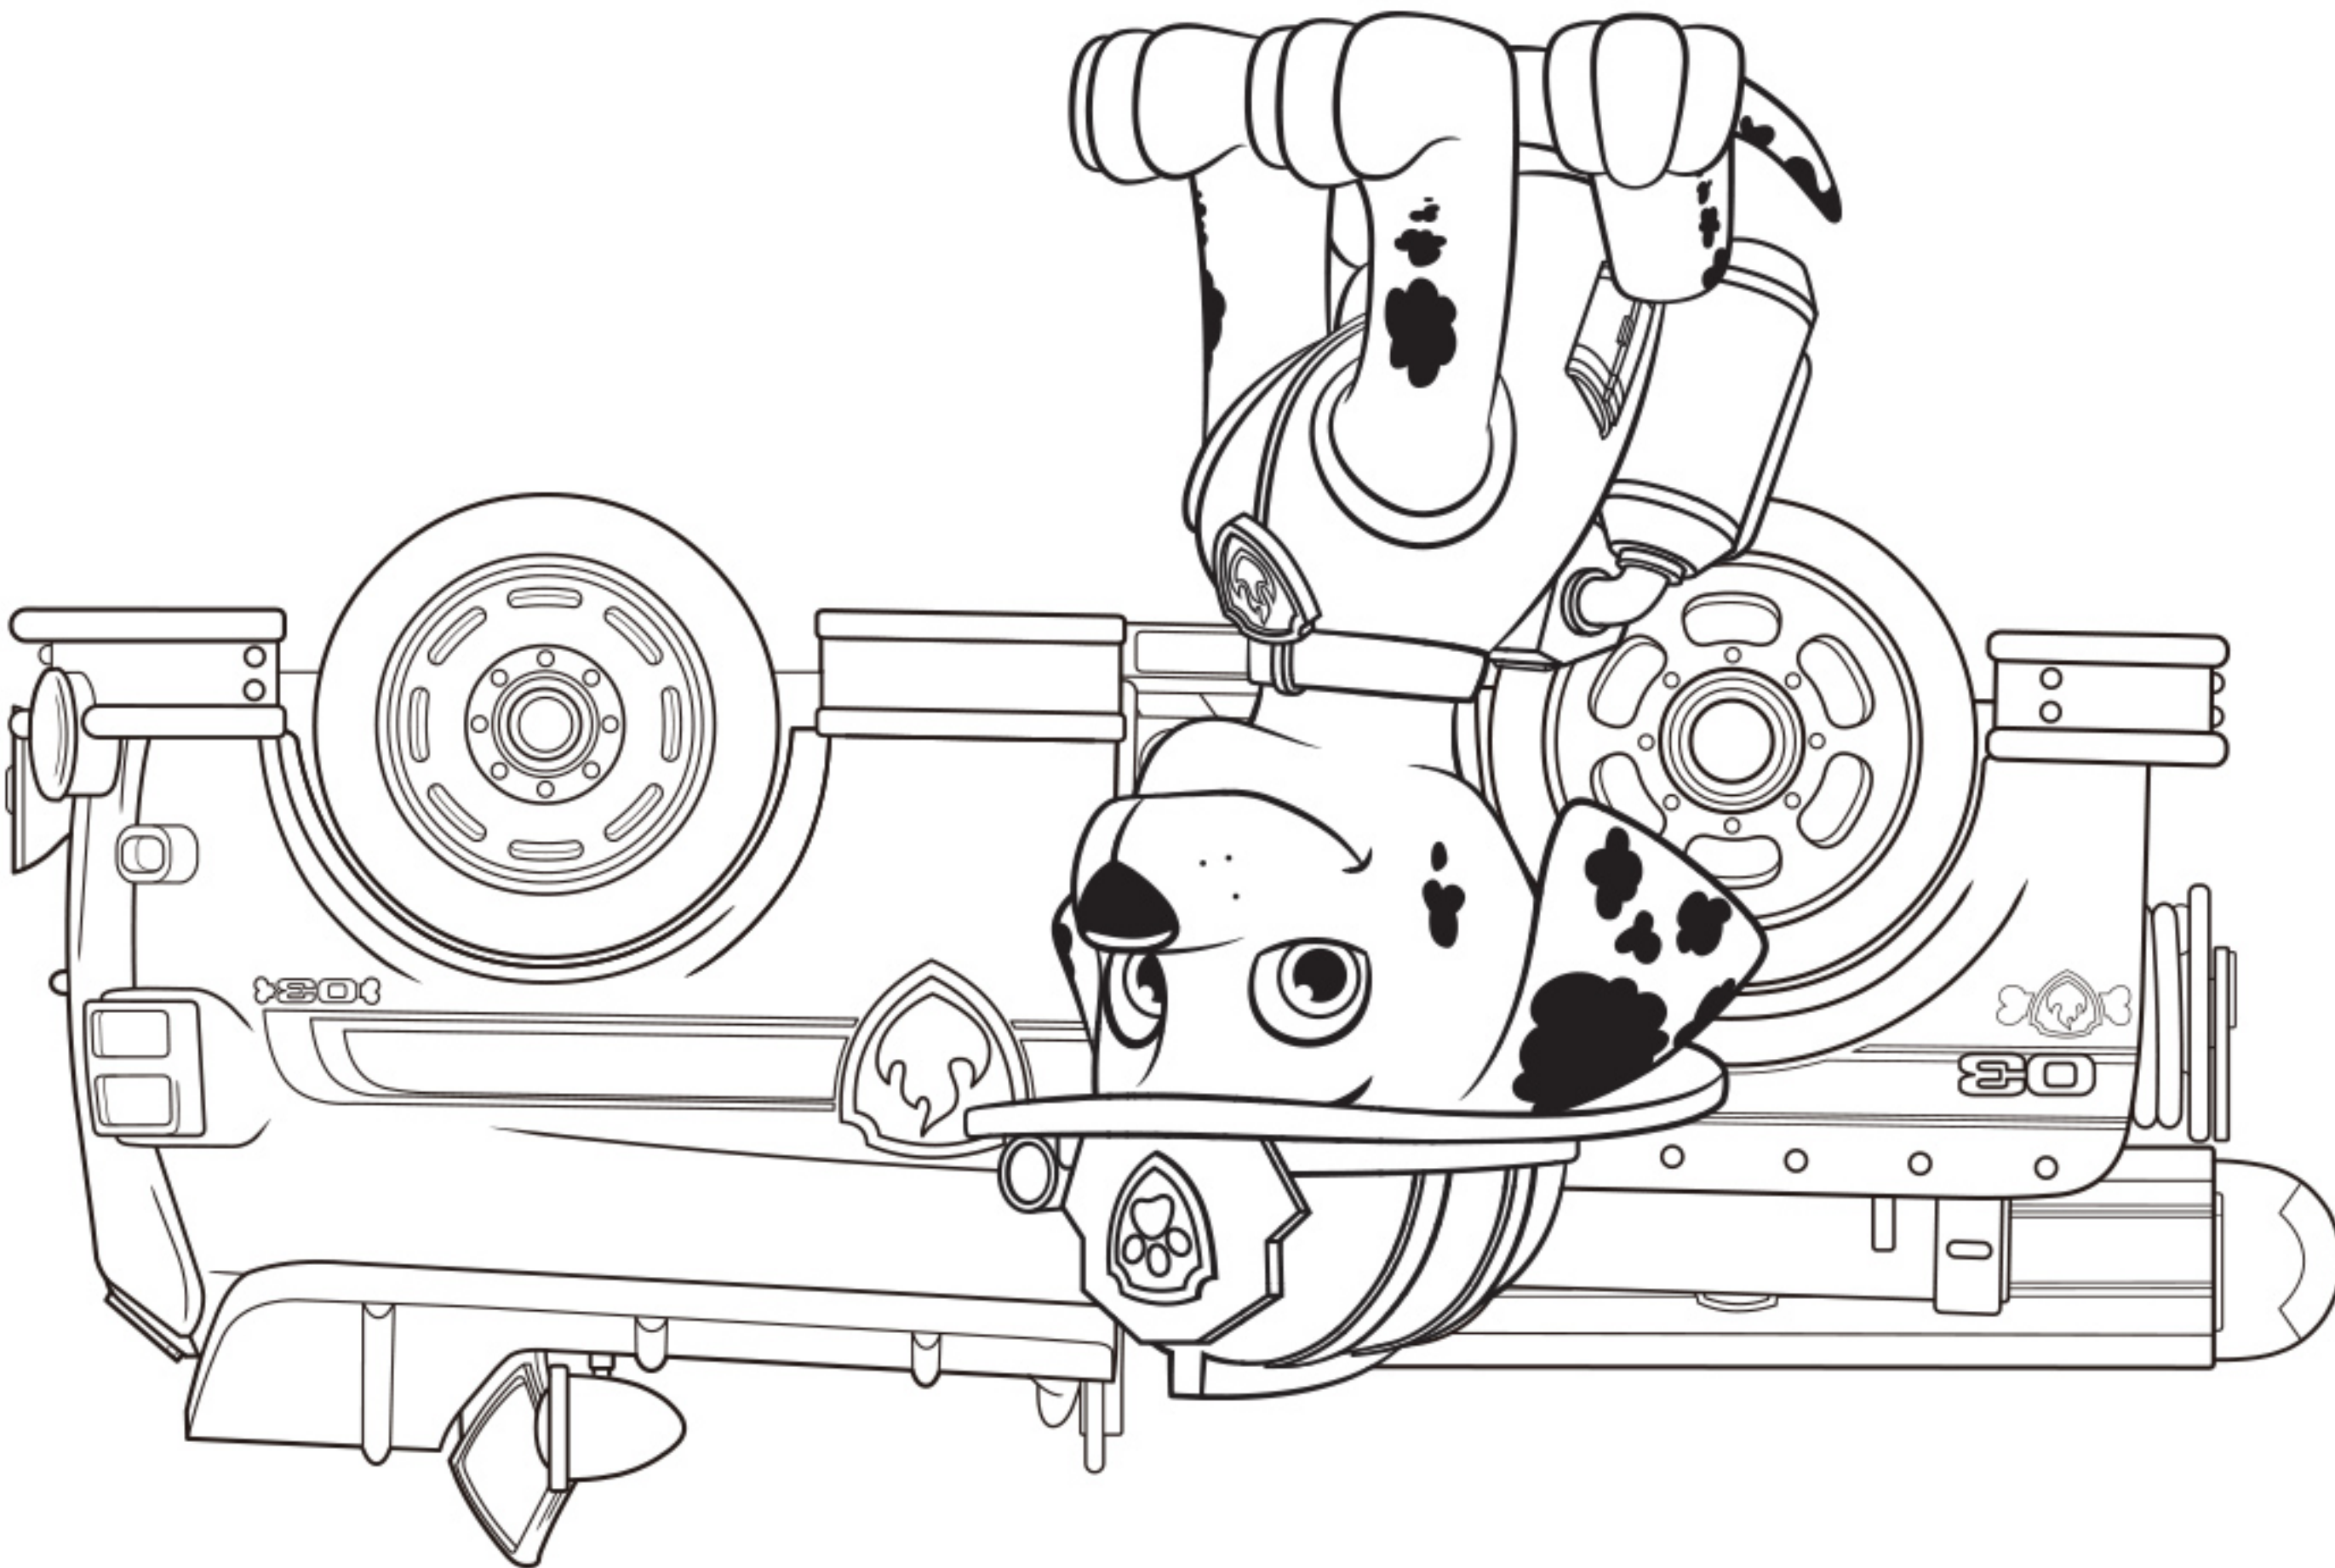

INSIDE

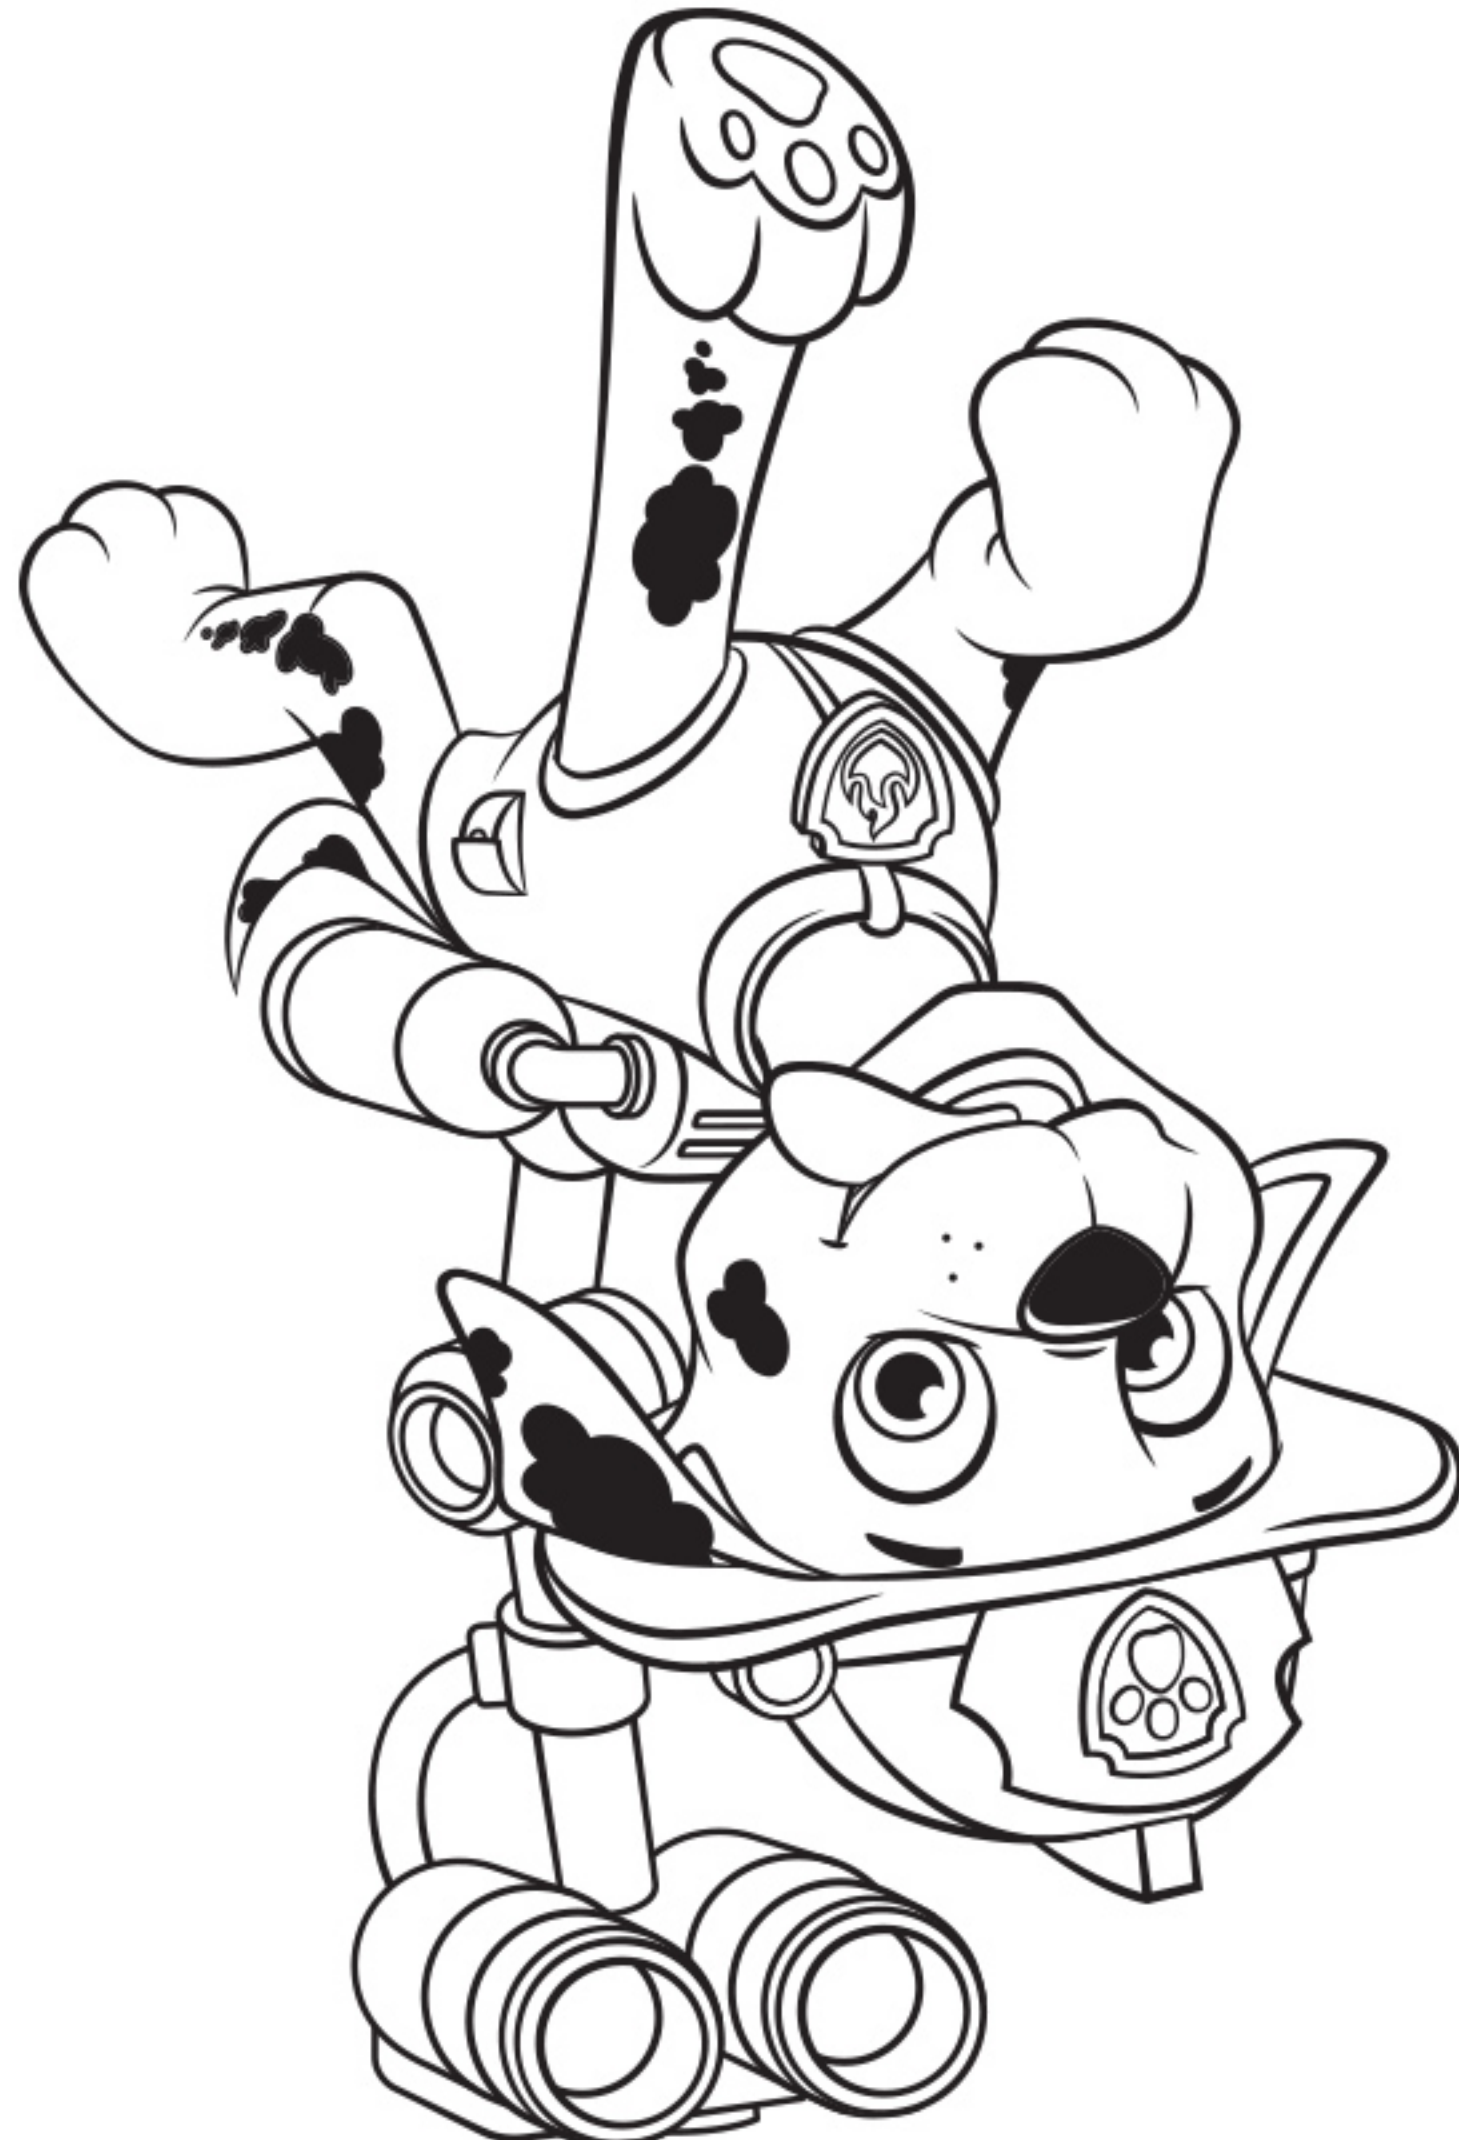

Did you Know?

Dalmatians are fire dogs. But why?

And then the dogs, who are friendly with horses, would comfort the horses — who are often frightened of fires — while the firefighters did their work of putting out the fire.

More than 100 years ago, when fire engines were powered by horses, dalmatians would run alongside the fire engines to clear the path