SPACELIBS

Dear Teachers,

I just want to let you know why I can't make it to school today. My friends and I went to check out our parents' lab last night and I felt a little _____ about it, for good reason! We snuck past the _____ to get in, but almost got caught when Doria accidentally _____ into Martin. It was a close call but we just counted to _____ and ran off, _____. When we finally got to the lab, I couldn't believe my _____! It was filled with all the coolest stuff: robot arms, _____, everything an _____ could need for going into space! Even some weird packets labeled _____ that Will tried to eat like cereal, but turned out to be super _____. The Control Room was _____ with tons of screens and buttons labeled "Launch" and _____, and more flips and switches than I've ever seen. The best part was the rocket ship! It was so big and so _____ that Samy started _____ as soon as she saw it. I don't want to get anyone in trouble, but it was Elliot's idea to actually get inside the spaceship. All we wanted to do was look inside, but once you're in there it's hard not to _____ everything. The launch wasn't for another few weeks so we thought it'd be okay to poke around, but then we heard the doors lock and that's when we all totally _____ out! We started pushing every button we could to fix things, but all we did was change the language settings because the ship started counting down in _____. The only thing left to do was to buckle up and try to survive our way to _____. Our parents only found out what happened during liftoff, so it was too late for them to _____ us. It was scary, but it's a pretty cool flex to be the _____ people in space! So I wouldn't expect that essay in anytime soon.

Sincerely,

an Accidental Astronaut
